The Lebanese Society of Rheumatology officially endorses the Mediterranean Journal of Rheumatology as a valuable peer-reviewed reference for researchers and practicing rheumatologists.

This open-access rheumatology Journal is a reliable platform for promoting important scientific research from the Mediterranean region and adheres to global editorial standards.

The LSR encourages its members, residents and research fellows to read the Journal and submit their best research, reviews and letters for possible publication.

We are confident that the Journal will help strengthen professional cooperation within the Mediterranean region.
